MACRO ECONOMY JANUARY 2022

Manufacturing sector recovered strongly

- ❖ Manufacturing PMI: Positive growth in all three economies.

- ❖ Service PMI: maintained a recovery trend in all 3 economies.

- ❖ BSC's assessment: Although the Omicron variant affected manufacturing and service business activities (decrease in the number of orders, increased production and business costs, ...) but growth in all three economies both maintained a positive trend.

Source: Bloomberg, BSC Research incorporated

- ❖ The number of businesses returning to operation in January 2022 increased by +194% YoY; number of newly registered enterprises +28.9% YoY while the number of enterprises completing dissolution procedures decreased by -3.3% YoY.

- ❖ Employment of industrial workers increased by +0.68% MoM (Processing sector +0.74% MoM)

- ❖ The sudden increase in the number of businesses returning to operation showed a positive signal for business development in 2022. Besides, the number of newly established enterprises increased in both quantity and registered capital over the same period last year.

MACRO: THE NUMBER OF BUSINESSES BACK TO OPERATION INCREASED DRAMATICALLY

Business condition accumulated YoY%

Industry employment situation YoY%

- ❖ Retail sector recovered, up +4.3% YoY. Other sectors also recovered, causing total retail sales of consumer goods and services to return to positive growth +1.3% in January 2022.

- ❖ Although the components still declined over the same period due to the Covid-19 epidemic, they were all on the way to recovery.

- ❖ PMI reached 53.7 points in January. Manufacturing index increased by +2.4%. The number and output of new orders both increased. Employment also increased in January, but only modestly as some employees had to leave work due to Covid-19 infection and others have not returned to work. Besides, the epidemic also made transportation difficult.

MACRO: RETAIL SECTOR RECOVERED

❖ In January 2022, disbursement was estimated to increase by +8.62% YoY (equivalent to 25,315 billion dong, equal to 4.8% compared to the plan in 2022). Investment activities in January focused mainly on the allocation of capital plan in 2022. New projects with capital allocation in 2022 were in the process of preparing to complete investment preparation procedures. The implementation was mainly at the transition works.

❖ In January 2022, realized FDI was estimated to increase by +6.8%. Newly registered FDI reached 388 million USD, down -70.7%. Meanwhile, adjusted registered capital increased by 1.27 billion USD, equivalent to +169%.

MACRO: LOW IMPORT-EXPORT GROWTH RATE

Export accumulated 2021 YoY%

Import accumulated 2021 YoY%

Source: GSO, BSC Research

❖ Accumulated to the end of January, export increased by +1.6% YoY, while import increased by 11.5% YoY. Estimated trade deficit in January was 0.5 billion USD.

❖ The decline in import-export growth rate was due to the increasing tourism trend at the beginning of the year which caused the demand for imported goods in the United States to decline.

❖ BSC estimates the growth rate of export from 18-19% YoY and imports at 17-19% YoY by the end of 2022.

MACRO: STABLE INFLATION

Inflation

Source: Bloomberg, BSC Research

❖ CPI in January 2022 increased by +1.94% YoY. CPI increased month-on-month mainly due to:

✓ Domestic petrol and gas prices increased according to international prices.

✓ The prices of all kinds of goods and services increased according to the shopping demand of the Lunar New Year.

❖ BSC forecasts that CPI in 2022 will reach 3.0% in the positive scenario and 4.5% in the negative scenario. Key assumptions:

✓ (1) Brent oil price fluctuates in the range of 70-80 USD/barrel.

✓ (2) The price of pigs traded is from 40,000 to 80,000 VND/kg.

✓ (3) Prices of medical services, electricity prices rise again, increase sharply in the negative scenario and move sideways in the positive scenario.

❖ The average interbank interest rate reached 1.39% in January due to high credit demand during the Lunar New Year, continuing the upward trend from the end of last year. As of January 2022, credit increased by 1.9% YTD. Circular 14/2021/TT-NHNH on the restructuring of debt will be an active aid in the economic recovery from the fourth quarter.

❖ Core CPI increased by +0.66% YoY in January. Although inflation rebounded, it remained at a stable level, creating conditions to keep the monetary policy in the direction of further easing in the coming period. However, the reopening of the economy along with a sharp increase in oil prices will cause inflation to increase sharply in the first quarter of 2022.

MACRO: ABUNDANT MONETARY SYSTEM

- ❖ DXY Index increased compared to the previous month due to: (1) FED accelerated the end of bond buying program. (2) The Fed signaled to raise interest rates at least 3 times in 2022. However, the DXY Index has tended to turn down since mid-January due to the tension between the US and Russia over Ukraine.

- ❖ After a sharp decline at the end of the year, the VND value increased strongly again in January. The tightening of monetary policy in the US in 2022 may have a negative impact on the value of the VND. However, there are 3 factors that can help the exchange rate to stabilize:

- ✓ Foreign exchange reserves remained high at 108 billion USD.

- ✓ Remittances are expected to remain at 17-18 billion USD.

- ✓ The trade balance is expected to have a trade surplus of about 5.2-6.9 billion USD in 2022

MARKET: FORECAST FOR FEBRUARY 2022

SCENARIO 1

After accumulating around 1,470 points before the Tet holidays, VN-Index has a chance to surpass 1,500 points and retest the old peak at 1,530 points. The positive prospect of economic recovery and profit growth of enterprises after the epidemic as well as the plan to do the stimulus package are information to support the market in the first months of 2022. However, the market will be strongly differentiated according to the fourth quarter business results and the business outlook and plan of the enterprise in 2022.

SCENARIO 2

The positive psychological effect after the holiday will not last long, the market will be divided during the fourth quarter business results announcement season. In addition, 1,500 points acts as the psychological resistance of the market while waiting for supporting information. VN-Index will continue to accumulate in the range of $1,470 \pm 30$ points.
