Technical Analysis

The index broke out of the downtrend channel, gaining momentum will maintain next week with profit-taking pressure

Outlook: VN-Index saw a positive change during the week when it broke through the downtrend channel and triangle pattern to continue consolidating the short-term recovering trend. Bottom-fishing demand at low price areas, liquidity increased by 17% compared to the previous week and the price surpassing the downward price channel from August 2022 was a positive point last week. However, the liquidity of the breakout session was not too convincing and 5/6 trees in recent sessions were all in the form of doji and hammer with a narrow range, this shows that the market is still gaining in doubt, the index is still in doubt. there is still the probability of testing to the range of 1,055 – 1,059 points. This price area is also the neckline of the mini W model with an expected increase at 1,090 – 1,120 points. VN-Index is forecasted to continue gaining momentum next week and is likely to test 1,100 points and this is also the target price area of the mini W pattern next week as in last week's comment.
